

CHILDREN OCCUPY PULPITS

Churches Turned Over for One Day to the Little Folks.

BEAUTIFUL FLORAL DECORATIONS

Tiny Diplomas and Awards of Merit Given to the Scholars Who Have Completed the Work of the Past Year.

Children clothed in white, typical of innocence and purity, sat in the pulpits of Omaha Sunday morning, giving to the usual program of song and prayer and recitation a refreshing variance. In many churches the sermons were dispensed with altogether and pastors retired for the time in favor of small-sized teachers who made up in radiance and grace what skill they lacked in words and wisdom. The occasion was a happy product of modern Christianity termed "children's day," when dainty frocks and snug black knickerbockers are on parade. Those who designed the day fifteen years ago meant that children should feel at this time the active interest in the welfare of the church which may profitably affect their attitude in later years.

The day was observed in all the Protestant churches of the city excepting only the Episcopal denomination. In the Catholic churches the children were prominent in the exercises of the day. At St. John's cathedral the sacrament of the confirmation was administered to forty children garbed in spotless white from slippers to flowing veil.

The decorations of the church interiors were more notable than those of any other religious festival except Easter. The second Sunday in June, set apart by common consent for the children, is most favorably timed for the gathering of flowers, and no pains had been spared in arranging the offerings in the most tasteful way. In many churches canopies, draped with white and mingled with the children's songs. Festoons of roses, wild flowers and vines were draped about altars and the raised dais upon which the members of the infant classes commonly occupied seats. The day was as gentle and placid as an Arcadian summer and the churches were crowded.

In the programs of the morning the music was the feature and the work of the choirs showed careful training in the weeks that are past. The star performers were in all cases the infant classes and the simple songs and recitations, in spite of quavers and forgetful moments, went off with a success which displaced apprehension with a final glow of pride in parental hearts in the audience.

In a number of churches the commencement time of the public schools was applied to the Sunday sessions as well, and students who had done their part faithfully were awarded tiny diplomas and awards of merit. In order that the children might learn the blessing of giving boxes long since entrusted to their charge was to be used for various religious publication societies. The work done in spreading worthy literature was explained by the superintendent of the school. In some instances the collections went to special objects, the Keweenaw Lutheran children, for example, having their favor upon the mission work in the Omaha slaves.

ELEVEN SCHOLARS GRADUATE.

Little Folks Complete Primary Work and Enter Advanced Classes.

Eleven boys and girls were graduated yesterday morning from the primary department of the Westminster Presbyterian Sunday school. The children's day services were in charge of the primary department of the Sunday school and the little folks who have completed the primary work were granted their diplomas and welcomed to the more advanced classes in the school.

All the members of the primary department of the school were seated on the pulpit. At the sides of the pulpit were banks of palms and cut flowers and the organ left was artistically decorated with vines and flowers. The services were in charge of Mrs. Howard L. Kreider, principal of the primary department, and her assistants, Mrs. Edwin E. Gray and Mrs. John L. Robison.

CHILDREN'S GALA DAY OF THE YEAR

First Presbyterian Church Almost Converted into a Floral Bower.

Children's day was observed at the First Presbyterian church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, flags and bunting. From the spot where the pastor usually stands to deliver his sermons arose a series of long benches, tier upon tier, to the organ loft, and upon these sat the boys and girls of the Sabbath school, all neatly dressed in their new spring attire. It was their gala day of the year, having almost as much significance to them as Christmas.

Rev. Mr. Jenks, the pastor, explained that the Sabbath school of the First Presbyterian church is helping to maintain a missionary in China and is also aiding to support a young man who is working his way through a theological seminary, contributing $150 a year to each enterprise. The school is also self-supporting, but having recently made extensive purchases of books there is a deficit of $75 in the treasury. Six little girls took up a collection, however, which more than wiped out this debt.

The program opened at 11 a. m. and closed a few minutes after 1. It was a long affair for the children, but they behaved admirably and did their parts creditably. Recitations were delivered by Ruth Marchoff, Ruth Robinson, Dale Carson, Harry Swartzlander and Carol Marston. Among the interesting features of the program were a recitation by Miss Scott's Chinese class and the presentation of diplomas to the graduates of the primary class. They are probably the youngest graduates in the country. Mrs. Myron D. Smith sang a country.

solo and Miss Marie Swanson played a solo on the harp. Harry Swan and Willie Hunsd appeared in a humorous duet. Miss Gertrude Hospe sang a vocal solo. Prof. A. O. Muller played a selection on the zither. Prof. Muller's sister class of twelve children and the Sunday school orchestra furnished music that was much appreciated. The foregoing program consumed so much time that the last two numbers, including Rev. E. H. Jenks' address, were omitted.

BRILLIANT FLORAL DECORATIONS.

Exercises Partake of the Nature of Commencement.

Children's day exercises at the Sabbath morning services at the First Congregational church partook of the nature of commencement exercises, in recognition of the graduation of the primary department of the Sabbath school into the intermediate department. The church was decorated with palms and brilliant clumps of cut flowers. Over the pulpit was erected a floral arch bearing the legend "By Faith We Overcome." The first three words being worked in gold along the arch while the last word was suspended beneath in floral lettering. The program of exercises comprised an organ voluntary, singing of the doxology, prayer by Rev. H. C. Herring, selections by the choir and Sabbath school, solo by Miss Hoagland, recitations by Howard Livesey, Helen Smith, Harry Brown, Beattie Murdock and Ellen True, a dialogue participated in by Hubert Herring, Jay Patterson, Clifford Rutekin and Archie Lind, another by Ruth McBride, Augusta Gentsch, Ruth Harding, Florence True, Evelyn Humphrey, Mabel McBride, Hazel Clarkson and Harry Harding, vocal duet by Mrs. Beckett and Julie Colborn, instrumental duet by Florence Deverell and Mary Dallas, violin solo by Marian Haines and piano accompaniment by Gladys Haines, brief remarks by Rev. H. C. Herring, presentation of diplomas to the graduating class and distribution of flowers in miniature pots to all of the children of the Sabbath school. The graduates were Lena Majorie, Gretchen McConnell, Frederick McConnell, Bertha Snow, Allan Tukey, Gilbert Loomis, Marjorie Beckett, Harold Thompson, Elizabeth Herring, John Harding, Margaret Gentsch, Grace McBride, Thelma Carlson, Cassie Carlson and Alvin Mason. The church was well filled and the service and exercises were enjoyed by the old as much, apparently, as by the young.

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Young People's Societies Join with Juniors in a Program.

The children's day exercises at the First Baptist church were held at 7 o'clock in the evening, the young people's societies of the church merging their meeting with the program of the juniors. The children occupied the platform behind a screen of roses and wild vines. The choruses had been drilled for weeks for the occasion and the musical program was aided by Miss Allen's orchestra. Those who directed the children's efforts were Mrs. G. W. Hooker, Mrs. H. H. Hickey, Mrs. Frank D. Field, Mrs. J. H. Daniels and Mr. Spotts.

The welcoming address to the children was made by John R. Webster, who explained simply and briefly the purpose of a child's day observance. Miss Edna Hall followed with a recitation of the same theme and Miss Edith Spencer with an equally appropriate declamation entitled "June." The "out" speech of the evening was delivered very effectively by Martin Rhoades, and two other recitations, "I Wouldn't" and "Opportunity," were given by Mary Harty and Jack Webster. The last literary contribution was the recitation by Miss Lucile Bacon, "Mamma's Kisses." Music was interspersed throughout the program, the final number, "Crescent Bell," with a chime accompaniment, being particularly good.

Dr. C. B. Allen, Jr., spoke of the significance of the day and the work for which the funds collected would be devoted. The Baptist Publication society, the beneficiary of the day, has now in circulation eight missionary railway cards and a vast number of colporters throughout the west. The gospel cars are an idea peculiar to the Baptist denomination and are believed to be doing an important work.

Children Baptized.

Children's day at the Hanson Park Methodist church truly warranted the title, as five of the little ones were baptized in the afternoon. The services opened with the regular morning services of the church, the pulpit and platform being especially decorated with palms and cut flowers in honor of the day.

At the close of the sermon the assembly room was turned over to the Sunday school. The classes of smaller children occupied the platform in the rear of the pulpit and little heads which looked out from the shadow of the palm leaves produced a most artistic effect, carrying one back to the times of the apostles. The program consisted of songs and recitations, in which the infant class occupied the most prominent part.

When the children's day exercises were finished Mr. Cissell called for children who were to receive the rite of baptism. Five responded and with the beautiful ritual of the Methodist church, they were received into the church. Three adult candidates were received on probation and two by letter.

"In dealing with men remember that a spoonful of oil will go farther than a gallon of vinegar." The same may be said of children. There is nothing so good for children as the old-fashioned castor oil. However much they may abhor it, it is their best medicine for disorders of the bowels. In the more severe cases of diarrhoea and dysentery, however, Chamberlain's Colic, Cure, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given after the oil operates and a quick cure is sure to follow.

FRANK A. SEARS ACQUITTED

Jury Decides that He is Not Guilty of Bribe Taking.

VERDICT REACHED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

First Bailor Said to Have Stood Ten for Acquittal and Two for Conviction—Sears Congratulated by His Former Associates.

Frank A. Sears, former school board member, has been cleared by the justification of the law from the stigma of official corruption. The jury, which received the case at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, deliberated during the day and until 4 p. m. on Sunday. At that hour the clanging of a bell notified the bailiff that a decision had been reached and the court and interested parties were notified.

Sears and his wife entered the room shortly before the jury appeared, the former wearing the hunted fugitive look which has characterized his bearing during the trial. Mrs. Sears, who has scarcely left her husband's side since the hearing began, was composed and apparently confident. The defendant was accompanied by Hess and Irey, who naturally looked with the greatest concern on the outcome of the case as a portent of their own fate. No attaché of the county attorney's office was present.

James McMonie, foreman of the jury, announced to the court that a decision had been reached and after a poll of the jury a bailiff handed the verdict to Deputy District Clerk Storer. The clerk read the simple announcement that the jury found Frank A. Sears not guilty of the crime of accepting a bribe in public office. Sears emitted a nervous gasp and sank back in his chair. His wife, attorneys and former colleagues on the board gathered around him with congratulations and the party left the room without delay.

The delay of twenty-eight hours in reaching a verdict was due to the opposition of two jurors who entertained the firm belief that Sears was guilty as charged. The jury is said to have divided in the proportion of ten for acquittal and two for conviction on the first ballot and to have cast its votes without change until Sunday afternoon. The two dissenters were finally brought to a realization of their hopeless minority and were persuaded that a reasonable doubt existed as to the guilt of Sears.

Attorney Burnett for the defense said that while he was highly gratified at the outcome, it had not deviated in the least particle from his expectations. No substantial proof had been submitted in Mr. Burnett's opinion, of the guilt of the accused. When County Attorney Shields was informed of the verdict he expressed the opinion that the case against the other alleged bribe-takers, Hess and Irey, would be dropped. It would be necessary to call the same detective testimony into play, he said, and the cases against both Hess and Irey are less strong in several particulars than the one just concluded. Mr. Shields was unable to say positively that he would move to strike the other cases from the docket, but such, he said, would be his probable action.

Experiments have proven that vessels, fitted with propellers which imitate the fish's fin, develop a remarkable propelling power. It will cause a revolution in water travel. We Called on Chris.

A few days ago we called on Mr. Chris Melcher, the up-to-date druggist of South Omaha, who naturally keeps a stock of CRAMER'S KIDNEY CURE. "How does Cramer's Kidney Cure sell with you?" we asked. "I have been in the drug business for years," said Chris, "but the sale of Cramer's Kidney Cure exceeds that of any medicine I ever sold. While it is sold in six dozen lots," he said, "it is sold in one dozen lots. Do you mean it?" we replied. "Yes, certainly." We gave him one price (you know we are the best agents). He jumped at our offer like a base striking at a frog. "Three of my customers," said Chris, "have been using it and it has done them so much good that they recommend it to others, which, no doubt, has made a big increase in my sales. One of the men is an employee of the packing house and says he has bought all the different kinds of remedies he has heard of, but got no relief till he tried CRAMER'S KIDNEY CURE. He is now a healthy man and now he is a well man. He is enthusiastic over it and tells us not to hesitate to recommend it to our patrons if they want any medicine that will CURE them." This ended our talk and we took the car for home.
